ABOUT ODCP

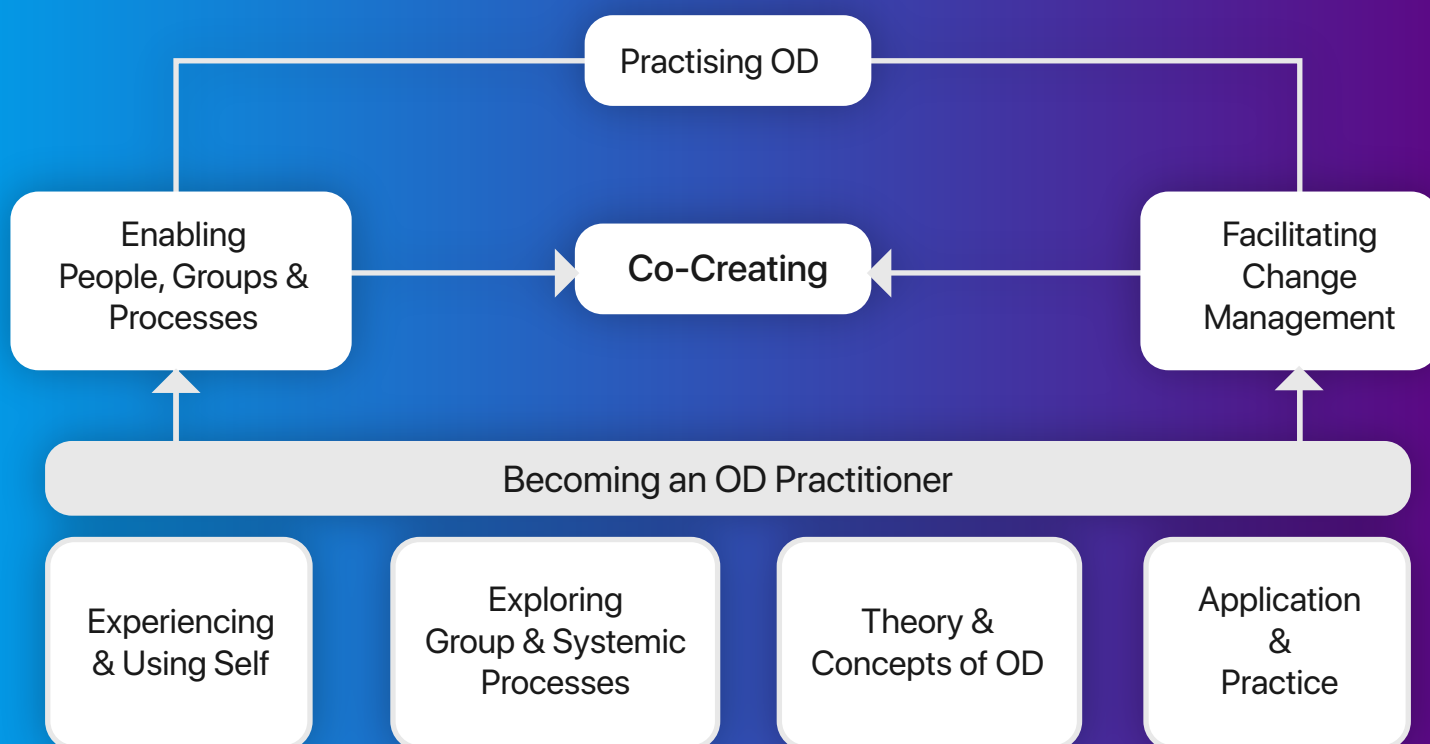

Organisation Development Certification Programme.

“OD is a planned organization wide effort to increase organization effectiveness through interventions using behavioral science knowledge”.

ODCP is an academic-cum-application-oriented course offered by ISABS for working professionals across all functional areas of organisational life. Spread over 18 months, this learning program provides participants with conceptual knowledge, process skills, competencies, tools and practice needed for performing various OD roles in an organization including being internal and external consultants.

Organisations today are expected to be both, externally sensitive and internally agile. Its holistic growth and development requires varied interventions. People and systems-related interventions aim to enhance the quality of human capital, relationships and processes within organisations. OD practitioners strive to manage change and transformation, while working with people, processes and culture within organisations, that are necessarily embedded within a complex, global and diverse world.

ISABS-ODCP MODEL

The OD Certification Programme is founded upon four pillars shown at the bottom of the model given above, depicting four critical areas of learning. These are fundamental to becoming an OD practitioner and the learning process entails strengthening each of these pillars. As a practice, OD is envisaged as a process of co-creation which enables people, groups and processes to facilitate the desired change within organisations, towards enhanced organisational effectiveness.

ISABS AND OD

Registered in 1972, Indian Society for Applied Behavioural Science (ISABS) is a national, voluntary society of behavioural scientists engaged in applying their knowledge and skills for the well being of persons, organisations, communities and the society at large. Its members, spread across the country, work in various roles as academicians, human resource development managers, independent consultants, trainers, counselors and community change agents. ISABS' core strength lies in its understanding of human processes at individual, group and system levels – a core competence to facilitate lasting change in organisations.

The story of OD in India is also the story of ISABS. From the late 1960's, pioneers in the field of OD in India have developed programs for Internal Change Agents and Facilitators. Indian Behavioural scientists such as Udai Pareek, Pulin Garg, Dharni Sinha, Somnath Chattopadhyaya, Manohar Nadkarni, Abad Ahmad, Ishwar Dayal and Francis Menezes, were some of the founders of ISABS. They were the first practitioners of OD in India, who made path-breaking contributions in the field of OD. ISABS endeavours to take this legacy forward. Specializing in Human Process work, ISABS continues to offer Human Process Laboratories and a variety of process-oriented programmes, as well as, developmental programmes for professionals.

Many of the current ISABS Professional members, are leading practitioners of OD in India and abroad. The link with National Training Laboratories (NTL) USA is strong, with many ISABS members being NTL members, including some of the Academic Council Members of ODCP. New partnerships have been forged with other Behavioural Science bodies like OEGGO in Austria. ODCP benefits from this abundant pool of expertise and experience.

The OD Certification programme (ODCP) is a natural extension and embodies the very essence of ISABS' philosophy and heritage of process work expertise available within ISABS.

ODCP PROGRAMME OBJECTIVES

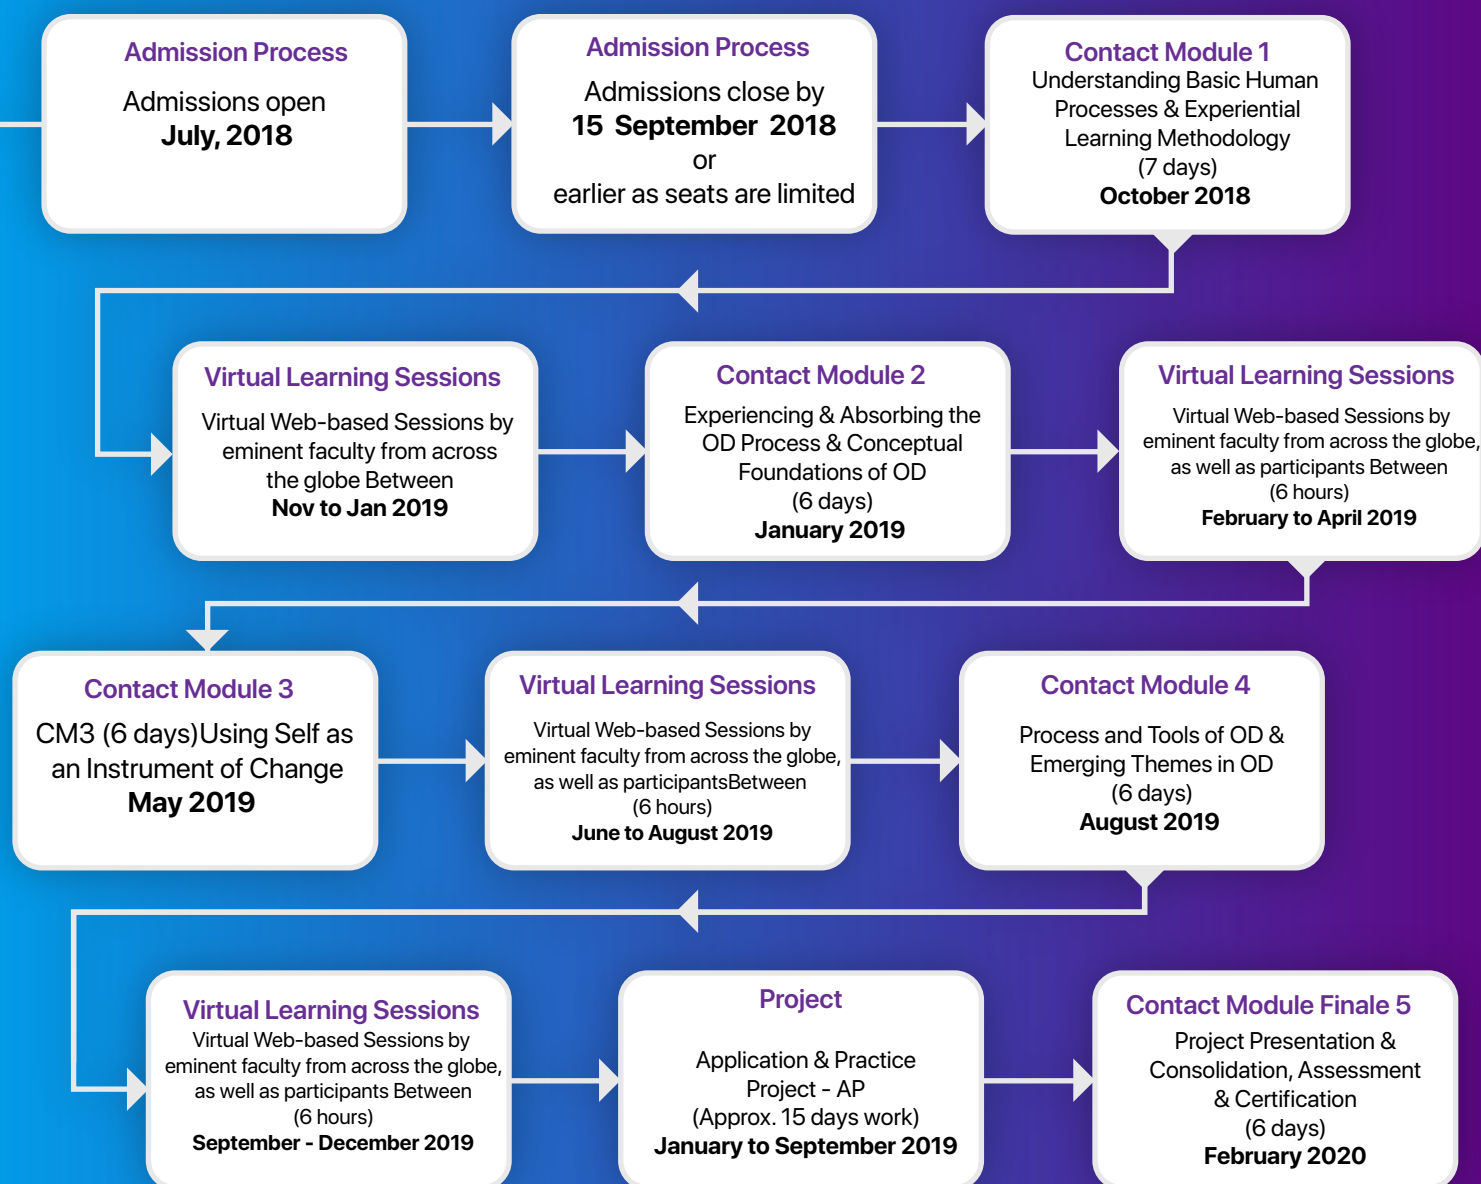

- Develop and refine professional competencies anchored in behavioural science to facilitate Organisation Development
- Become an Organisation Development consultant - internal or external
- Learn about human and systemic processes that impact and facilitate change
- Prepare for leadership positions in change processes to move organisations towards greater effectiveness
- Learn to understand and be sensitive to organizational culture.

ACADEMIC PROCESS

PROGRAMME FOCUS

- Concepts and theoretical foundation of OD, elements of OD
- Human processes that play out at individual, group and system levels in organisations
- Internalization of the above two through application and practice

- The learning design has a mix of face-to-face and virtual class room sessions, assignments and ongoing feedback processes. The methodology includes experiential learning, self-exploration through instruments, case study analysis as well as conceptual discussions etc. A hands-on application project is also a requirement. Online discussions to exchange insights and clarify doubts create a learning partnership between participants and faculty. Adequate shadow consulting and development coaching are offered by the ODCP Academic Committee, Faculty and Mentors in each region.
- The Academic Process is designed to instill in the participants, an understanding of both, concepts and processes. The participants learn and embrace Action Research methodology to understand the external world by experiencing its reflection within themselves and others; and by putting theory to practice. Thereby they also get to understand how to facilitate change at different levels. The expected Academic Process* is as follows:

[CM = Contact Module; VLS – Virtual Learning Session; AP = Application and Practice]. CM is a face to face module at different locations. Exact dates and venue would be intimated about 12 weeks in advance. Project work can be at a place of the participant's choice.

*The schedule may go through some changes as per the decision of the Director and the Academic Council

TESTIMONIALS

"Be ready to be surprised by both, the curriculum and the pedagogy of ODCP. To me, ODCP was going behind the obvious, beyond the data into the story behind the story. It meant understanding the processes going on around me whether it be the people, groups or systems, and - most importantly - within me. The program gives you comprehensive conceptual knowledge and ample opportunities to apply the learnings. To top it all, ODCP is brought to you by the finest team of OD practitioners who have won national and international accolades."

Rahul Yadwadkar, Sr. V. P. & Head-Customer Service - Reliance Energy - ODCP Batch 6

"The program opened my eyes to aspects that we take for granted – real problems that go unseen in most organisations and in the community, at large. What I've been able to leverage is creating spaces for Helping Relationships at an individual level and Process Consultation at an organizational level. The program also enabled me to understand my own patterns of interaction with individuals and organisations. I would strongly recommend this program even if it has slightly caught your interest. Just go for it and enjoy the ride!"
Linda Baptista , Executive Coach & OD Consultant - ODCP Batch 7

"ODCP has helped me understand the dynamics of change and is helping me in my present role. It has helped me understand the impact of structure, process, talent and culture in organisations. This is helping me with change interventions that I need to do in my current role as OD and Learning Head. I am now able to add a lot more value to my function. I have grown not only as a professional but as a human being as well. I would recommend ODCP to anyone who wants to grow in the OD space."

Sushama Kulkarni , Head - OD & Learning, Zensar Technologies Ltd. Pune - ODCP Batch 4

"ODCP focuses on Human Process Work as the base, in contrast to some other OD programmes which are more of 'toolkits'. A transformational journey, it provides a new set of eyes to look at organisational life. The ODCP faculty are some of the best OD Practitioners in the country. A highly recommended programme for anyone who wishes to develop oneself in the field of Organisation Development."
Amit Sharma , Director - HR, Healthcare Innovation Centre, Philips India Ltd. - ODCP Batch 5

ODCP from ISABS has been an amazing transformation journey for me, where I journeyed through the emotional rigors of exploring myself and the meaning of organization through memorable experiences, enabled by fluidic facilitation, through an experiential process of converting information to practical application oriented behavioral science knowledge, eventually leading me to a path of a better human being, a practitioner and a facilitator of change within oneself, in the organization and the larger eco-system. It has truly enhanced my ability to positively impact organizations and society at large. A decision well made – right there at the top for me.

Sanjeev Singh , AVP Business Excellence, Tata Business Excellence Group - ODCP Batch 8
